

Hundreds of Rabbis Agree: Raise the Minimum Wage!

“You shall not abuse a needy and destitute laborer... but you must pay him his wages on the same day, for he is needy and urgently depends on it.”

— Deuteronomy 24:14

As rabbis and rabbinical students, guided by religious faith and Jewish ethics, we are deeply concerned about the working poor in this country. The current minimum wage of $5.15 fails to provide a fair opportunity for those who struggle to escape poverty as they labor in full time, low wage jobs. We urge you to pass a clean minimum wage bill that will help ensure dignity for working Americans.

The medieval Jewish scholar Maimonides taught that the highest level of tzedakah (righteousness) is reached when we help someone stand on their own two feet. As religious leaders, we open our hearts and our hands to the poor and ask: How can we create a society that promotes economic self-sufficiency, reflecting this teaching?

A decent minimum wage is a critical tool in the struggle for economic empowerment and against poverty. The minimum wage helps us to honor work by establishing an hourly wage floor beneath which employers cannot pay their workers. It has contributed to a reduction in the exploitation of workers. We empathize with those in our communities who fight everyday to make ends meet against the declining real value of today's minimum wage. It is a disgrace that the minimum wage is worth $3 less in today's dollars than in 1968 and hasn't been raised in almost ten years.

We applaud the stated commitment by the leadership of the 110th Congress to raise the federal minimum wage to $7.25 per hour. We urge you to follow through on this commitment by passing a minimum wage bill without delay and without amendment.
